TROUBLE IN HAWAII.

Queen Liliuokalani's Government Overthrown.

PROVISIONAL ONE PROCLAIMED.

A Commission Appointed to Lay the Facts Before the United States Government at Washington and Plead for Annexation—United States Marines from the Warship Boston Preserving Order on the Island—How the News Was Received in Washington.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 30.—The steamer Claudine arrived in this port from the Hawaiian islands Saturday, bringing important news of a revolution in that kingdom. A provisional government has been established by an uprising of the people. Queen Liliuokalani has been deposed from power, monarchy abrogated, government buildings seized and a new provisional ministry, composed of four members, is sustained by the bayonets of volunteers.

Queen Liliuokalani attempted on Jan. 15 to promulgate a new constitution, depriving foreigners of the right of franchise and abrogating the existing house of nobles, at the same time giving her power of appointing a new house. This was resisted by the foreign element of the community, who at once appointed a committee of safety of thirteen members, who called a mass meeting of their classes, at which 1,200 or 1,500 persons were present. That meeting unanimously adopted resolutions condemning the action of the queen, and authorizing the committee to take into further consideration whatever was necessary to protect public safety. On the 16th the committee of public safety issued a proclamation to the Hawaiian people recounting the history of the island, and calling attention to the misrule of the present line of monarchs and proclaimed the following:

The Manifesto.

The Hawaiian monarchial system of government is hereby abrogated. A provisional government, for the control and management of public affairs, and the protection of public peace, is hereby established, to exist until terms of union with the United States of America have been negotiated and agreed upon. Such provisional government shall consist of an executive council of four members, who are hereby declared to be S. B. Dole, J. A. King, P. C. Jones and W. O. Smith, who shall administer the government of the islands, the first named acting as president and chairman of such council, administering the department of foreign affairs, and the others severally administering the department of interior, finance and attorney general respectively. In the order enumerated, according to the existing Hawaiian law, as far as may be consistent with the proclamation; and also of an advisory council, which shall consist of fourteen members, who are hereby declared to be S. D. Dannon, A. Brown, L. A. Thurston, J. E. Morgan, J. E. Rasmussen, H. Waterhouse, J. A. McCandless, E. D. Teuney, F. W. McChesney, F. Willhelms, W. R. Castle, W. G. Ashley, W. C. Wilder and C. Bolte. Such advisory council shall also have general legislative authority. Such executive and advisory council shall, acting jointly, have power to remove any member of either council and to fill such or any other vacancy.

All officers under the existing government are hereby requested to continue to exercise their functions and perform the duties of their respective offices, excepting the following persons: Queen Liliuokalani, Charles B. Wilson, marshal; Samuel Parker, minister of foreign affairs; W. H. Corwell, minister of finance; John F. Colburn, minister of the interior; Arthur P. Peterson, attorney general, who are hereby removed from office.

All Hawaiian laws and constitutional principles not inconsistent herewith shall continue in force until further order of the executive and advisory councils.

This was signed by Sanford B. Dole, minister of foreign affairs; A. J. King, minister of the interior; P. C. Jones, minister of finance, and William O. Smith, attorney general, the four constituting the executive council of the provisional government of the Hawaiian islands.

Simultaneously with this proclamation another was issued dismissing the existing ministry and marshal, and at the same time a squad of thirty armed men took charge of the government buildings, placing the ministers of the queen under arrest. At 5:15 o'clock 200 sailors and marines from the United States steamship Boston landed and proceeded to guard the American consulate and residence.

Queen Liliuokalani Protests.

Late in the afternoon the following was issued by the queen:

I, Liliuokalani, by the grace of God, and under the consultation of the Hawaiian kingdom, queen, do hereby solemnly protest against any and all acts done against myself and the constitutional government of the Hawaiian kingdom by persons claiming to have established a provisional government of and for this kingdom. I yield to the superior forces of the United States of America, whose minister plenipotentiary, his excellency John L. Stevens, has caused United States troops to be landed at Honolulu, and has declared that he would support the said provisional government. Now, to avoid any collision of armed forces, and perhaps of loss of life, I do this under protest, and I am impelled by said force. I yield my authority until such time as the government of the United States shall, upon the facts being presented to it, undo the action, and reinstate me in the authority which I claim as the constitutional sovereign of the Hawaiian islands.

This was signed by the queen and members of her cabinet, and was indorsed by the men composing the provisional government, and the receipt of which was formally acknowledged by them. After issuing the protest, the late queen and cabinet yielded unconditionally all the departments of the government to the provisional rulers.

All day of the 17th the community were in a state of expectancy, looking to the committee of public safety to do something to end the state of tension, and to secure the rights of all the citizens against encroachment once and for all. The committee in the meantime was not idle, but was incessantly occupied completing its organization, and perfecting final arrangements necessary to the proclamation of a provisional government and its protection by an armed force.

The Only Blood Shed.

At about 2:30 o'clock an attempt was made by three native policemen to arrest the progress of a wagon which was being driven up Fort street by Mr. Benner and Mr. Good. Those in charge of the wagon resisted the attempt of officers to arrest its course. One of the officers making a motion to draw a revolver, Mr. Good drew his own, and calling attention to the fact that he was justified in the shooting, he fired, seeking, however, to avoid the infliction of a dangerous wound. This was the only bloodshed and the victim is not mortally wounded.

The government assumed formal control of the palace and barracks. The ex-queen retired to her private residence, at Washington Place, and the government granted her an honorary guard of sixteen men. The household guard was paid off and disbanded. A strong force of volunteers took possession, and is in charge of the palace, barracks, police headquarters and other government buildings. At headquarters the work of military organization is being rapidly pushed forward, and volunteers continue to pour steadily in from all quarters. It is not apprehended that any difficulty will arise upon the other islands. The provisional government spent the 18th and a large part of the night in perfecting the organization and adjusting the wheels of the government to the changed order. Meantime, the ordinary routine of government work is going ahead with but little break.

The provisional government has sent a notification of the situation to representatives of foreign powers, with a request for recognition, which was granted by the representatives of the United States and other representative ministers of foreign powers except that of Great Britain.

Annexation Asked.

The provisional government then issued a proclamation reciting the present condition of affairs and the necessity of a new government, and appointed commissioners to proceed to lay at once the facts before the United States government at Washington, with a plea for annexation. This commission arrived on board the steamer Claudine and left for Washington late Saturday night.

The Commissioners Interviewed.

Before starting for Washington Lorin A. Thurston, the chairman of the Hawaiian commission, said: "Things are in such position now that no party or class of residents are fully capable of establishing a state government. They must look outside, and naturally come to the United States. It was stated, also, that the condition of affairs is much more threatening than is indicated by the published statement in the Hawaiian papers. It was declared the intention to ultimately expel all the foreigners from the island. The proposed disfranchising of all except the native born was to be the first step. There would be bloodshed and destruction of property after expelling all the foreigners, and their property would be confiscated. Property is now protected only by a volunteer force of 500 men and marines and the blue jackets from the Boston."

It was affirmed by Mr. Thurston that if this government fails to annex the islands they will be left open to anarchy. The old treaty between France and England, made in 1842, recognized the independence of the islands. It was a treaty between those powers, negotiated by King Louis Philippe, binding each nation not to take possession of the islands. It is clear, in the view of those well posted, that England, under the treaty, can not annex, nor can France. The United States, at the time that treaty was negotiated, refused to be bound or to join in the treaty; in other words, it refused to pledge itself not to take possession of the islands, but simply recognized the independence of the government.

Mr. Thurston said further: "The last legislature was the most corrupt ever known. They passed a lottery bill and then the opium bill. To crown all, Liliuokalani wanted to promulgate a constitution disfranchising the foreigners, abolish the nobles and abrogate the supreme court, and, in short, give all power into the hands of the natives. The intelligent people of the islands, as well as the foreigners, said that this would not do, and resolved that the only course left open was annexation to America. I have not little doubt that this country will accept the islands. If they do not our mission is done, but the people, in the event of a refusal, will surely turn to England, who will be only too glad to take us."

Charles L. Carter, one of the commissioners, made the following statement: "The object of our visit to Washington is to have the United States take possession of the Hawaiian islands. We want to join the Union. Not as a state, however, but under a territorial or district form of government. A government like that of the District of Columbia, with the addition of a governor appointed by the president, is preferable for many reasons. There is such a large number of Chinese and other cheap laborers on the islands who can not be trusted to vote intelligently, that if universal suffrage were declared the whites, who represent almost the entire business interests of the country, would be out-voted and powerless."

"An entire new system of government must be built up, and the only way is to have the United States take charge. It must come to this or the whites must leave the island. Their interests are too great, however, for them to give up without a struggle, and the revolution was the result."

"Our commission," continued Mr. Carter, "will call on the president and secretary of state at Washington, and will do our best to negotiate a treaty of annexation. We do not have power to make a treaty, but will have to refer all such matters to the provisional government at Honolulu."

The Hawaiian commissioners unite in saying that the new government of Hawaii will make ample provision for the deposed queen, who will be supported in good style, and it will also provide for the eighteen-year-old Princess Haulani, heir-apparent to the throne, who is at school in England.

IN WASHINGTON.

How the News of the Revolution Was Received at the National Capitol.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—The news that Queen Liliuokalani had been overthrown came to the United States government with an emphasis that precluded any doubt as to its authenticity. An official dispatch to Secretary John W. Foster brought the startling intelligence. He immediately sent the information to President Harrison and to Mr. Mott Smith, the representative in Washington of Queen Liliuokalani. Mr. Mott Smith, however, had already been informed and he hurried to the state department with his dispatch from Mr. Thurston, the leader of the commission sent to negotiate the annexation of Hawaii to the United States.

Secretary Foster sent the news to the office of the secretary of the navy, with the request for an immediate interview with Secretary Tracy. Mr. Tracy had not reached the department at the time, but Assistant Secretary Soley, recognizing the importance of the information, went at once to see Secretary Foster. They had a consultation in reference to the naval strength of the United States in Hawaiian waters, and Mr. Soley informed Mr. Foster that the only vessel there was the cruiser Boston, now at Honolulu. No other vessels, he said, were in the vicinity.

Mr. Foster thought it would be well to have better naval representation at Honolulu, and Mr. Soley went back to the navy department to ascertain what vessels were available for service in this connection. Secretary Tracy arrived soon after Mr. Soley returned, and, upon hearing the news, went over to see Secretary Foster.

It will take at least ten days for one of our naval vessels to join the Boston at Honolulu. It is probable that the new coast defense vessel Monterey will be sent. This vessel is completed, with the exception of having her turret armor in place, and it is likely that she will set sail at once from San Francisco, to support the Boston.

The interview between Secretary of State Foster and Dr. Smith continued for some time. At its close Secretary Foster went over to the White House and had a conference with President Harrison. While, of course, no statement of the policy to be pursued by the United States in the matter will be made, at least until after the arrival of the commissioners from Hawaii, who are to present the request for annexation to the United States, it may be said that the visit of the Hawaiians will hardly be successful, if the purport thereof has been correctly stated. Aside from the innovation upon the policy of the government since its organization which the annexation would be, the interests of other countries in the Sandwich islands are too large to permit on the part of the governments of those nations an acquiescence in such annexation.

In executive session Mr. Morgan announced the intelligence of the Hawaiian revolution to the senate. Although it could only be considered in an informal manner, a debate was at once precipitated that occupied the greater part of the secret session. Generally the speeches seemed to favor annexation, or the establishment of a protectorate.

In opposition to these views it was asserted that the debt of Hawaii amounted to more than $3,000,000, which was sufficient to cause this government to halt before assuming that load. It was also stated by other senators that when we secured our coaling station at Pearl river, years ago, there was an agreement under which England, Germany and the United States and the other great powers agreed that they should keep their hands off, and permit Hawaii to run her own affairs.

Incontroverting this statement it was claimed that while there might have been a tacit understanding in that direction, it was not such a contract between powers as would preclude the United States in the event of a request from the government of Hawaii, from exercising the power of annexation, if, indeed, there had ever been any understanding on the subject. In support of the presumption that there was no agreement it was shown that England had been for a year or so quietly but industriously making inroads in the islands, and creating a feeling among the people of that country which was harmful and extremely prejudicial to the interest of the United States and her citizens who had invested their money in the enterprise that were developing the island and increasing their trade and commerce. The matter will, no doubt, be before the senate in the usual way in the course of a few days, and an extended debate will be the result.

In the house of representatives there was a strong feeling expressed by leading Democrats against annexation. At the same time there was an equally unanimous opinion that no other nation should be permitted to step in and control the destinies of the island. The Monroe doctrine was again upheld as a cardinal principle in our foreign policy, and as demanding the exclusion of European domination over territory so near our own. "What could we do with it, and what a lot of trouble its affairs would give us?" is, perhaps, a fair summary of the statements made informally by members. It was said at the same time that the course Hawaii is adopting in seeking annexation is practically the same as that taken by Texas when it became a part of the United States.

Something About the Sandwich Islands.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—The government of the Sandwich islands was a constitutional monarchy, with a queen as the sovereign. Her advisers are a cabinet. The legislature is composed of twenty-four members of the house of nobles and twenty-four representatives. In many ways the government resembles the republic of the United States and certainly the Sandwich islanders feel more friendly to us than to any other great nation. Nearly all the natives are now Christians, the queen belonging to the Church of England. The total area of the islands is 6,640 square miles—about the size of New Jersey—while the population is nearly 100,000. Fully 30 per cent. of the trade is with the United States.

Who President Dole Is.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—S. B. Dole, now president of the provisional government of Hawaii, is a son of one of the late American missionaries to Hawaii, is a graduate of Williams college, and has been second associate justice of the supreme court of Hawaii. He is a scholarly man of acknowledged legal and judicial ability.

FRANCE'S POSITION.

Belief That England Had Inspiration to Her Action in Egypt.

PARIS, Jan. 30.—Last week was a very exciting week. M. Deville, minister of foreign affairs, has been passing through panics of which the public has had no idea. Beside the Panama canal scandal the ministers have been busy with foreign affairs. We have had two things weighing heavily on us—the first was the affair with England, the second the affair with Austria. England has taken a position in Egypt directly contrary with the treaties made with Europe, and in which France is a signatory.

It is quite evident that in the discussion with Prince Abbas, the Khedive, the question is not as to mere ministerial changes, but as to whose hand shall finally grasp Egypt. It is no longer a question of a protectorate, but of annexation, pure and simple. Besides, they want to know whether France can tolerate such illegal proceedings. England speaks of the "interests of civilization."

The question, are "interests of civilization" really in the game? It is clear that the English occupation of Egypt is absolutely contrary to the desires and wishes of the Egyptian people, as has been proved by the demonstration at Cairo. Are not all the treaties regulating the Egyptian question and making her forever the vassal of Turkey in force? England can not by herself tear up all these treaties.

There is now an interchange of notes between the two countries, and they have taken on a sharp character. France, who has right on her side, is now beginning to understand that she made an error in not entering Egypt in 1881. England, who is strong in the right of possession, will not even think of evacuation.

Because Lord Rosebery, the British minister for foreign affairs, has strong German sympathies, it is possible that the hand of Germany may be seen in this aggressive political move of England. The same reflection may be made as regards the quarrels sought by Austria last week. Count Hoyon, the Austrian ambassador here, has reproached France with the articles appearing in the Paris newspapers, alleging that they were injurious to Austria.

Count Hoyon, who has now been eight years in France, knows that the government can do nothing in this matter. There are no press coercion laws in France. It was thought at first that the complaints were not serious, but Count Hoyon has returned twice to the charge, demanding the second time that apologies be made, when he knew the present character of Austrian diplomacy. No one can believe that such a move was inspired by Austria. There must be other influences at work, and it is thought that they are German.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Jan. 30.—Willie Harper, a young lad, was shot and killed by Willie Lewis, a playmate, at Niles, Saturday. The boys secured a revolver, and, not knowing it was loaded, Lewis pointed it at Harper and fired. The weapon was discharged, crashing into the brain. Young Lewis is delirious over the accident.

BLAINE'S FUNERAL.

Arrangements All Completed for the Sad Event.

THE SERVICES AT THE HOUSE.

Admission to the Church Will Be by Card, as That Edifice Will Not Hold More Than One Thousand People—Telegrams of Sympathy from All Parts of the World.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—All arrangements for the funeral of Mr. Blaine have been completed. The pallbearers will be personal friends of the dead statesman. The following have been invited: John W. Foster, Stephen B. Elkins, Levi P. Morton, Senator Hale, Senator Frye, Representative Bontelle, Representative Milliken, Representative Dingley, Andrew Carnegie, White-law Reid, Representative Hitt and Senator Don Cameron.

The body of Mr. Blaine was removed yesterday afternoon from the chamber in which he died to the parlor, on the second floor of the residence, and placed in the casket. It will remain there until after the brief service at the house at 11 o'clock this morning. To this service only intimate personal friends will be invited, all such invitations being given verbally.

Admission to the Church of the Covenant, where the services will be held, will be by card, and after the allotted seats have been assigned to the family and immediate personal friends, to the president and cabinet, and to the diplomatic corps, who will attend unofficially, there will be very little room left.

The Church of the Covenant contains 770 seats, but this number can be increased to about 1,000 by the use of chairs, hence the necessity for confining admission to the building on the occasion of the funeral, as without such restriction ten times that number would vainly strive for entrance.

The main body of the church will be reserved for members of the family and their immediate friends and the families of the president, vice president and members of the cabinet. On the left of the main aisle will be seated the members of the diplomatic corps, who will attend unofficially. Seats for members of the senate and house of representatives will be reserved on the right.

Telegrams of condolence from every part of the United States and from foreign countries continue to pour in. There is apparently an endless chain of messenger boys passing between the telegraph office and the red house.

MILITIA CALLED OUT.

A Strike at Dunkirk Assuming Serious Complications.

DUNKIRK, N. Y., Jan. 30.—Sheriff Jenner, of Chautauqua county, has found the work of upholding law and order in this town, at the present state of the strike in the Brooks locomotive works, too great for the forces at his command, and at 1 o'clock this morning called on Brigadier General Peter C. Doyle, of Buffalo, commanding the Third brigade of the national guard of the state of New York, for military assistance.

General Doyle answered as follows: "Call upon the Thirteenth separate company, at Jamestown, to go to Dunkirk if necessary. We will send more troops from Buffalo. Keep me advised."

Trouble is expected and trouble of the most serious character. It is believed that the managers of the works intend to bring in a force of men sufficient to run the works, and the strikers have loudly and boldly threatened to keep them out.

Two men who ventured outside the works last night were set upon and severely beaten. The strike began one month ago today, and has become a very serious affair. The strike was caused by the riveters in the boiler department refusing to work under two contractors named Kane and McNamara, alleging human treatment on their part. They left the works without stating their grievances, which were presented afterwards.

The lack of boilers made it necessary to lay off the men on the other departments and now about 600 men are out of employment in consequence. The Brooks people engaged Philadelphia men to take the strikers' places and brought them here Saturday by special train. The new men were hurried inside the gates at the works before the strikers could interfere.

THE BABE ESCAPED.

Father, Mother and Three Children Frozen to Death.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., Jan. 30.—The bodies of John Michaels, wife and three little children were discovered frozen to death Saturday night in a hovel in Putnam county, near the Lincoln county line. A fourth child, an infant, was heavily wrapped, and was found to be alive.

The family has a queer history. Michaels and his wife, who are said to be simple-minded, have led a sort of gypsy life for years wandering about in West Virginia in the summer seasons and going south in advance of the snows in winter. It is supposed that they failed to get away in time this year, and the severe cold, so prolonged, caught them without preparations to withstand it.

Fate's Strange Decree.

HARRISBURG, Ky., Jan. 30.—Twenty-five years ago Joseph Bradshaw and Miss Belle Coleman were married. Seven years later they separated. They were married again, the husband having come here from Rock Island, Ills., to effect a reconciliation.

Sensational Contest Over a Will.

At Lexington Saturday Judge Bullock refused to probate the will offered for record by the widow of the late D. E. Caldwell, of the Transcript. The will left the estate all to the wife, cutting off Miss Nellie Caldwell, a daughter of deceased, without anything.

The contest was based on the grounds that Major Caldwell had been under undue influence when he made the will. The trial was one of the most dramatic ever chronicled in Kentucky's judicial history.

Mrs. Caldwell created a sensation from the time she commenced her testimony until she concluded. She denounced Messrs. McConnell, Judge Denny, Mr. Campbell and others as being robbers and thieves. She admitted that she had entered a Keely-cure institute at St. Mary's, Ohio, to be cured of inebriety.

Exciting Adventure at Ripley.

Last Friday afternoon, D. C. Coughlin, who owns a livery stable at Ripley, sent two of his employees to South Ripley for a load of coal. Each man had a horse and cart, and both crossed safely on the ice to the Kentucky side. Having loaded up the cart the men started back. The first one crossed in safety, but the second was hardly one-third the way across when the horse went through. His struggles broke the ice for quite a distance, and the cart and contents soon followed the horse into the water. Luckily several men were near, and by their herculean efforts the horse's head was kept above the ice and the cart and harness were detached. By means of planks and ropes the horse was finally got out alive and sound, but his troubles did not end. The horse was brought about half way across the river, when he broke through the second time. He was again pulled out successfully and taken to shore, where he was treated to a hot whisky punch of huge dimensions, and after a couple of hours the animal appeared apparently none the worse for his thrilling experience.

"CALLED THE TURN."

The "Turnpike King" Gave the Lexington Leader a Straight Tip.

Complimentary Reference to Colonel Baldwin's Excellent Judgment in Political Affairs.

The Senatorial contest is practically ended, but the following which appeared in Friday's issue of the Lexington Leader will prove interesting reading all the same:

"Colonel W. W. Baldwin, of Maysville, was in the city yesterday, and was 'held up' and robbed of his Senatorial opinions in the office of the Phoenix by a Leader representative. Seeing no escape from the reportorial anger, he helplessly submitted to a cross examination.

"Who do I think will be elected Senator? Why, Lindsay, of course, hands down, and under a pull. They can't beat him no matter how long the contest is prolonged. He is one of the biggest-brained men in the State, and as a lawyer has no superior. He has proven his ability on the bench, and as a man he is above reproach; as pure in private life as the icicles which hung from Diana's temple. What more could the people of Kentucky demand in a man to succeed Mr. Carlisle? I know the man well and have long recognized his worth. He would make an admirable Senator; and, mark me he is going to be elected assure as the sun shines."

"Won't the delay injure his chances and enable McCreary or Stone to defeat him?"

"Not at all. Lindsay's friends, confident of their strength, acquiesced in the delay for the sake of harmony. Lindsay has the votes to elect him, and delay will not injure his chances. In the last caucus there were present forty-six firm and loyal supporters. There were absent three others just as loyal, making forty-nine in all, or within one of a majority. Besides these, Lindsay's managers hold six solid proxies, making a total of fifty-five. How can they beat such a vote? It can't be done."

"Colonel Baldwin," continues the Leader, "wears a No. 8 hat, and his judgment heretofore in political matters have been equal to that in business affairs, by which he has amassed a fortune. He has spotted every winner in Presidential elections since the war, and can see through a millstone that has no hole in it, figuratively speaking. A recent victim of his unerring judgment was General Basil Duke, who is now in Frankfort taking an interest in the Senatorial contest. Colonel Baldwin arrived on the ground, and after rinsing the cobwebs from his throat, asked the boys the situation. They explained it to him. The Brown man showed him that their man had twenty-six votes solid.

"In case of a break of the line, where will his reserve vote come from," inquired the astute turnpike king.

"This question was a poser, and the Brown enthusiasts said they did not know, but thought they would draw from Stone.

"Two bottles of champagne that Brown will withdraw before midnight," replied Colonel Baldwin.

"The wager was promptly accepted by General Duke. Before 10 o'clock that night Brown was off the track, and General Duke paid the bet like a little man, remarking: 'Hereafter I will bet with no man who wears a number 8 hat.'"

The Steamer Louise Burned.

Bay Brothers' steamer Loniso was destroyed by fire Friday afternoon at Coal Grove, opposite Ashland. The boat pulled in behind the ice piers at Coal Grove at the beginning of the cold spell, having on board fifty barrels of salt and a number of hogs.

Steam had been kept up night and day, and it is supposed the fire caught from a defective flue leading from the fire under the boilers, as the blaze originated on the roof near the smoke stacks. The Louise was built about ten years ago, and has since ran almost continuously in the Huntington and Portsmouth trade. She cost originally $10,000, and was one of the swiftest steamers on the upper river. The loss is considerably over $8,000, covered, however, by heavy insurance. The hogs and salt were lost.

James Lane Allen.

As pleasing in person as in his works, it is pleasant to note the grand reception which Mr. Allen had at the Odeon. He told of the literature of the New South, and forgot to mention that he is one of its most charming exponent. Gentle born and bred, graceful and true in all his work, he has earned a reputation that has covered this continent and has moved softly over the sad sea waves to the other hemisphere. Cincinnati Enquirer.

Mr. Allen will deliver a lecture at the court house to-night, and the people of Maysville should accord him a warm welcome. The lecture will be given under the auspices of the ladies of the Church of the Nativity.

INDIANA STILL IN IT.

A Track Walker Claims to Have Seen a Huge Serpent in the Snow.
MOORE'S HILL, Ind., Jan. 30.—The night of Jan. 13 was one of the coldest nights of the winter. The snow had fallen steadily during the greater part of the day, yet, according to the story of Henry Rowell, the track walker on the Ohio and Mississippi railway, between Cochran and Lawrenceburg, it was not too cold for a monstrous snake to cross his path while on his itinerary.

During last summer a large serpent was reported to have been seen in the vicinity of Wilson creek, between Aurora and Lawrenceburg, which, in all probability, had made its escape from some traveling circus.

As Mr. Rowell, on the night mentioned, going over his route, was approaching Wilson creek, he was startled by a clanging and hissing noise, like the clanking of hogchairs and the hissing of steam escaping from a boiler. Immediately raising his eyes from the track, he saw a few yards in front of him a huge serpent, with its head thrown some five feet in the air, drawing itself rapidly across the track in the direction of the river.

Henry's position was not an enviable one. To be two miles from a town on a cold and windy night, and a monstrous snake bearing down toward him, was not desirable at all. He immediately retraced his footsteps and hastened back to Cochran, where he summoned the foreman of the track hands and told him the track near Wilson creek was in need of repair; for when the snake drew itself through the snow across the rails so great was the path which it left in its wake that Henry's strained imagination misled him, and he thought he saw a gap in the rails. The foreman and his men were soon on their car, hastening toward the scene.

When they arrived at Wilson creek the track was found to be all right, but a large gutter or path two feet wide was seen where the snake had crossed the road.

The serpent was not to be seen, but it may have crawled to its den in the strip of woods near by.

Henry now goes armed as he walks the track, and on passing Wilson creek bridge is on the alert.

A Barrel of Whisky.

A barrel of whisky contains a good deal more than any other barrel of the same size; for in addition to the regulated forty-two gallons, it also contains:

A barrel of headaches, of heartaches, of woes;
A barrel of curses, a barrel of blows;
A barrel of tears from a world-weary wife;
A barrel of sorrow, a barrel of strife;
A barrel of all-unavailing regret;
A barrel of cares and a barrel of debt;
A barrel of hunger, of poison, of pain;
A barrel of hopes ever blasted and vain;
A barrel of falsehood, a barrel of lies;
That falls from the man's lips as he dies.
A barrel of poverty, ruin and blight;
A barrel of terrors that grow with the night;
A barrel of crime, and a barrel of groans;
A barrel of orphan's most pitiful moans;
A barrel of serpents that hiss as they pass,
From the head of the liquor that glows in the glass.

THE ICE BREAKS.

The Ohio Gives a Grand Free Show,
Witnessed by Thousands.

The Coal Landing and Wharf Roughly Handled, But the Damage Comparatively Light.

"There goes the ice," "the ice is breaking," and other similar exclamations were heard on Sunday afternoon when the warning signal was given by the ferryboat Laurance from the Aberdeen Landing.

The break-up had been expected all during the day, but it was fifteen minutes of two o'clock—sun time—before the ice moved.

Then came the familiar whistle of the ferry, and hundreds of citizens of Maysville and Aberdeen hastily donned their wraps and hurried to the river front to witness a grand break-up in the Ohio. The bank on each side was soon lined.

It is a matter of unwritten history that break-ups in the Ohio generally occur at this point on Sunday, and history repeated itself yesterday. Mr. Henry Warren, of the West End, predicted some days ago that the ice would move Sunday afternoon, and he came within ten minutes of the exact time it started. Other citizens came within an hour of the time, in their guesses, or predictions.

People who had property at risk hoped that the ice in the channel would go out first, but in this they were disappointed. The river had been rising steadily all Saturday night, and had reached a stage of about thirteen feet Sunday morning. During the forenoon yesterday the rise was much faster, and the marks showed a stage of fifteen feet when the break-up occurred.

The immense field stretched from shore to shore moved slowly for about twenty feet and then stopped.

The icy fetters had not been entirely torn loose, but the pressure from above was increasing with every second. Up opposite the water works, a jagged irregular line from shore to shore could be seen getting higher and higher as the fields from above slowly moved against that which was still holding.

At 2 o'clock the second break came, and then there was no let up. The movement of the ice was slow at first, but increased with each minute and it was soon going at a lively rate.

There were six or seven barges at Wormald's elevators. These were slowly forced down the shore for some distance. The lines could not stand such a pressure and they snapped like twine. It looked for a few minutes like barges, wharfboats and all would be carried away. One barge was shoved out on the shore, but was carried right along with the rest. Luckily Captain Phister's small wharfboat checked them and the ice soon gorged above them, and all but the outer one was saved. The outer barge was soon torn loose, carried down stream, crowded up against the large wharfboat and was crushed out of all shape. The wreck was forced out on the shore at Short street.

A few minutes later the ice caught the large wharfboat, and there was a sudden tightening of lines, and a scampering of people, to get off. Captain Phister was prepared for this, however, and was ably assisted by Captain Logan Cook, Mr. James Woodworth and several others. The lines were slackened, and let out, allowing the boat to drop down a short distance and then it safely swung into the eddy, without any damage whatever.

The lower coal landings all suffered some damage. One Juhling barge was in two just below the depot, part of it being carried away and the other half shoved out on the shore gorge. It knocked a small hole in a Williams barge which was also left on the ice. One barge from Wormald's landing was left partly on Davis' float. Dodson & Frazer, Gable's, and all the landings were given a close squeeze, and the empty barges were strung along the shore.

The ferryboat Laurance at Aberdeen and the Dave Wood, Ida Budd and Silver Wave at Beasley's eddy all escaped without any damage. They had good harbors.

The three barges from Hudson's landing at Aberdeen that were left on the bar three or four weeks ago were carried away.

The ice was very soft, and easily crumbled under slight pressure. At places it was forced out on shore twenty or thirty feet and piled up ten or fifteen feet high.

The towboat Crown Hill passed down in the ice this morning. She had steam up, but was floating.

Several barges from points above passed down in the ice this morning.

The river is about twenty feet, and nearly on a stand. There has been a break-up all the way to Pittsburg.

A SUDDEN SUMMONS.

Mr. Nelson Whitaker, Ex-Superintendent of the County Infirmary, Dies of Heart Disease.

Mr. Nelson Whitaker, ex-Superintendent of the County Infirmary, died very suddenly at 9:30 o'clock yesterday morning at the home of Mrs. Rodgers in the Fifth ward, where he had lived for some time.

He was taken with a pain in the region of the heart, and Dr. Cartmell was summoned. His condition was not considered very critical, but while those in the room were conversing with the patient he suddenly passed away. Some disease of the heart was the cause of death.

Deceased would have been seventy-three years old Wednesday. He was born in New Hampshire, but most of his life was spent in this city. He was a brother of Judge Emory Whitaker, and also of Hon. H. P. Whitaker of Covington. The funeral will occur Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Mrs. Rodgers' home.

REV. FATHER BRINKMEYER, of Cincinnati, preached at the 10:30 o'clock mass at St. Patrick's Church yesterday, and the members of the congregation who missed hearing him should certainly regret it. His sermon was simple, instructive and very impressive.

CHARLES GANTZ, a young colored man who stole $22 a few months ago from a servant in a West End home, was captured at Covington Friday, and brought home by Constable Dawson. He was given a hearing Saturday afternoon before Squire Grant, and was held over to the Circuit Court. In default of $100 bail, he was committed to jail.

A MAN named William Vaughn supposed to be the confederate of Estill, the check worker, was arrested Saturday by Chief of Police Fitzgerald and Constable Dawson, but was afterwards released, as they did not have sufficient evidence against him. A woman who was with him told the officers that Estill married into a good family in Bourbon County.

MR. AND MRS. T. P. BRADLEY entertained a number of their young friends at their pleasant home near this city Thursday evening, January 26, in honor of Miss Hallie Bradley, of Bernard. The case was to come up in Mayor's court this morning.

WEEK IN CONGRESS.

What Will Probably Be Done in Both Houses.

SEVERAL BILLS IN THE SENATE.

A Final Vote to Be Taken on the Anti-Option Bill—Appropriation Bills Will Occupy Nearly All the Entire Time of Both the Senate and House.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—The most notable event of the week in congress will probably be the disposition of the anti-options bill in the senate. By agreement the final vote upon the bill will be taken at 2 o'clock Tuesday. It will then, in all probability, be sent back to the house with its many amendments, an entirely different measure from the original Hatch bill as passed by that body.

The first two of the regular annual appropriation bills are now on the calendar of the senate, the army bill and the fortification bill, and it is expected that the District of Columbia appropriation bill will be added to the list early in the week. It is the expectation of the managers to also call up the Cullom bill making amendments to the interstate commerce laws to meet recent judicial decisions. As introduced this bill contained the important "pooling" clause which was afterward stricken out by the committee on a very close vote, and it is possible that an effort will be made when the bill is under consideration in the senate to restore this provision to the bill.

The house leaders intend to keep at work on the appropriation bills to the exclusion of all other business. As soon as the Sunday civil bill is passed the general deficiency, the consular and diplomatic, the military academy, the pension and postoffice appropriation bills, all of which are on the calendar, and will be passed in the order named and sent over to the senate. There should not be much delay in passing the first three of these bills, unless an attempt to exploit the condition of the treasury should involve the house in a general financial debate, but with the pension and postoffice supply bills there are quite likely to be the subject of considerable discussion, owing to some radical change in methods proposed by the former bill and the heavy increases of appropriations proposed by the latter bill.

The passage of these bills will leave only three of the annual appropriation bills unacted on by the house. Two of the bills, the Indian and the agricultural, are expected to be reported before the appropriation measures now on the calendar are out of the way. The naval appropriation bill should follow close on their heels, its delay having been due to a desire to know the condition of the treasury before recommending the construction of additional war vessels.

The special order for the Andrew-Cato banking and silver purchase repeal bill, which the committee on rules has agreed to report, may be brought in during the week, but it is not intended to call it up until the morning of the day on which it is to go into operation, Feb. 9, so that this fight is off for more than a week.

BURNED PORK.

The Louie, Loaded With Hogs and Salt, Destroyed By Fire.

ASHLAND, Ky., Jan. 30.—The steamer Louie, owned by Bay Brothers, of Ironton, O., which has been lying opposite this city for some time, burned to the water's edge at 5 o'clock Friday evening. The boat pulled in behind the ice piers at Coal Grove, O., at the beginning of the cold spell, having on board fifty barrels of salt and a number of hogs, and has lain there for the past three weeks.

Steam has been kept up night and day, and it is supposed the fire caught from a defective fire leading from the fire under the boilers, as the blaze originated on the roof near the smokestacks. The Louie was built about ten years ago, and has since ran continuously in the Huntington and Portsmouth trade. She cost originally $10,000, and was one of the swiftest steamers on the upper river. The loss is considerably over $8,000, covered, however, by heavy insurance. The hogs and salt on board were lost.

WRECK IN A DENSE FOG.

Eight Persons Injured, Two of Them Perhaps Fatally.

RACINE, Wis., Jan. 30.—At 10 o'clock Saturday night the first section of freight train No. 185 was sidetracked at Cadahy to let a northbound passenger train go by. Owing to a misplaced switch and the dense fog the passenger train went crashing into the caboose, smashing it and derailing three or four other cars.

Eight persons were injured, two of them perhaps fatally. The injured were: McClinchy, freight conductor, skull crushed, will probably die; J. W. Chapman, fireman, hurt about the back and chest may die; Louis McCue, engineer, cut about the head and body, not dangerously; Brakenan Miles, hurt about the head and body; four unknown men.

The injured were taken to Racine on a special train and are at St. Mary's hospital.

FIFTY-SEVEN LIVES SAVED.

The Great Mine Calamity Not as Disastrous as Reported.

BUDAPEST, Jan. 30.—A partially successful effort was made late Saturday night to rescue the men who were entombed Friday morning by the explosion in a coal mine at Tokod Grau. Fifty-seven of the men were taken from the mine by means of a shaft that had not been used before for a long time.

After the fifty-seven men were saved the fire reached the shaft through which their rescue was effected, thus precluding all hope for the other men in the mine. There are seventy-three men still in the mine. They are, beyond all doubt, dead, as the whole interior of the mine is a roaring furnace.

What is

CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhoea and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

Dr. G. C. Osgood,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

Dr. J. F. Kitcheloe,
Conway, Ark.

The Centaur Company, 77 Murray Street, New York City.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ANCKER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."
